"Ambition is the path to success. Persistence is the vehicle you arrive in". Bill Bradley

In today's fast-paced world, staying focused and persistent towards achieving our goals can be challenging. The constant distractions and competing priorities can often lead us astray from our objectives. However, the power of focus and persistence is undeniable, and those who master these skills can achieve incredible success in life.

Focus is concentrating our mental and physical resources on a task or goal. It requires discipline, self-control, and the ability to shut out distractions and prioritize our objectives. When we focus on a particular goal, we can channel all of our energy towards achieving it, which increases our chances of success.

Conversely, persistence is the ability to keep going even when the going gets tough. It involves tenacity and resilience in the face of obstacles and setbacks. When we are persistent, we continue to work towards our goals even when we face challenges, setbacks, and failures.

Dear Staff and students, the power of focus and persistence lies in their ability to work together. We can achieve incredible things when we focus on a specific goal and persist in pursuing it. We can overcome obstacles and challenges and achieve results that might have seemed impossible at first.

Message - Principal

"Focus on your strengths instead of your weaknesses, on your powers instead of your problems." - Paul Meyers

It's common for people to focus on their weaknesses and try to overcome them, often in an effort to become well-rounded individuals. However, a better approach is to focus on your strengths and leverage them to achieve your goals. When you focus on your strengths, you're not only more likely to succeed, but you're also more likely to enjoy what you're doing. You're doing something you're good at and enjoy, which is a recipe for success and happiness.

You can use your strengths to your advantage personally and professionally. Focusing on your weaknesses, on the other hand, can be a frustrating and time-consuming process. It's important to recognize your limitations, but trying to set them right can be a waste of time and energy. Instead, accepting them and focusing on what you do well is better. Your strengths are what give you confidence. When you know that you're good at something, it can give you the confidence you need to tackle new challenges. Focusing on your strengths can help you build your self-esteem and self-confidence. When you're doing something you're good at, you'll be more productive and efficient. You'll be able to complete tasks more quickly and with less stress, which can help you achieve more in less time.

Of course, it's still important to be aware of your weaknesses and improve in those areas where necessary. However, the key is to focus on your strengths and leverage them to achieve your goals. This doesn't mean you should ignore your weaknesses or stop learning and growing. It means you should prioritize your strengths and use them to your advantage.
